Willis Reacts to Comp Plan Hearing

Hutchins Vows an August 6 Vote

Small Business Interest Group President Anthony Williams speaking at the public hearing for passage of the plan.

By Dick Myers
Editor

“We are going to vote on this plan,” said Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) President Tim Hutchins. He was speaking at the July 30 BOCC meeting just a week after they held their public hearing on the proposed revision to the county’s comprehensive plan. He vowed to call for the vote at next week’s meeting (August 6).

Many of the speakers at the hearing called for more work on the plan, including remanding it back to the planning commission, which voted their own version of the update last December. Hutchins said a remand was not in the cards.

The commissioner president’s comments came at the end of a presentation by Planning and Zoning Director Mark Willis in which he listed eight criticisms of the plan heard at the hearing from the more than 60 speakers. He called them “What We Heard,” and then went about refuting them.

After that presentation by Willis, Commissioner Steve Weems said perhaps the board should consider adopting the planning commission version of that plan as a compromise. The BOCC has modified the plan, including removing the distinction between minor and major town centers. Weems and Commissioner Buddy Hance voted against that change in an earlier meeting.

Hutchins defended closing the record 28 hours after the public hearing conclusion, saying there was no state requirement to leave it open. He said after planning staff reviewed those last-minute comments, he and Willis worked for two days crafting the response given at the July 30 BOCC meeting.

Willis said the criticism at the hearing fell into the following categories:

- Rapid Additional Growth
- Calvert County Comprehensive Plan Superseding the Town Center Master Plans
- Super Big Box Stores
- Eliminating all Growth Controls
- Buildout Limits

He followed with detailed responses. The first “What we Heard” was “The plan creates an environment for rapid growth”. He said the town center concept for controlling growth has been around since the first comprehensive plan was adopted in 1967 and developed into a policy in 1983.

“The new plan continues to support directing growth to town centers, consistent with the original vision of the first plan.” Willis said.

The second response was to “The plan creates an environment for rapid growth.” Willis insisted growth is not controlled by the plan, but by the county’s Adequate Public Facilities Ordinance (APF), and the state Tier Maps.

Regarding the What we Heard: “The comprehensive plan supersedes town center master plans,” Willis said, “Land use changes within the town centers cannot occur until the town center master plans and zoning ordinances are updated.”

He added, “The real intent of the town center master plans is to keep the uniqueness of the town centers.” Those master plans, the BOCC has vowed, will come shortly after the comprehensive plan is adopted.

Next he turned to “Super big box stores are automatically approved with the new Comprehensive Plan.” He said the only place that a big box of up to 150,000 square feet would be allowed would be in the New Town District of the Prince Frederick Town Center. Big boxes of up to 75,000 square feet are allowed in the Dunkirk Town Center, the Walmart being the only existing one.

Big box stores are regulated in the zoning ordinance, not the comprehensive plan, Willis said.

Regarding "The comprehensive plan draft eliminates all growth controls," he said, "The new plan continues to direct growth to town centers, consistent with the original vision of the first comprehensive plan in 1967," and reiterating that growth is controlled by APF and tier maps.

The What we Heard on "The comprehensive plan is eliminating residential buildout," he said, "Zoning determines how many homes can be built in a designated area."

He said he has determined, "You can't legally establish a residential buildout" in the comprehensive plan. Establishing a buildout was one of the changes called for by the Republican Central Committee.

A companion to the buildout issue was the charge that the plan eliminates "All growth controls." Willis reiterated, "Growth control measures remain in place through adequate public facilities criteria, zoning and the tier program created by the State Agricultural Preservation and Sustainable Growth Act, also known as Tier Mapping."

Finally of the oft heard criticism: "The comprehensive plan expands the town centers," he noted the increases called for were minor changes. He said, "Most of the proposed town center expansions are within the one-mile radius in Prince Frederick," and include two existing built-out subdivisions.

In conclusion Willis made the following recommendations to the BOCC:

- Require the Planning Commission to evaluate, biennially, the rate of growth of each Town Center and make zoning recommendations, if needed, to the Board of County Commissioners
- Incorporate, by reference, the findings of the Transportation Plan update, the Historic Preservation Plan, the Water and Sewer Plan and the Land Preservation and Parks and Recreation Plan
- Modify the adopting Ordinance to ensure Town Center Master Plans are not superseded by implications so that they may continue to carry forward their original themes

Even before the meeting, since the presentation was posted online, the main opposition group, Keep Calvert Country, issued the following statement: "While at least acknowledging our comments for a change (something that has never before happened in this Comprehensive Plan process), it appears they are still not listening to us. What we cannot understand is why county government will not take the questions and complaints that have been made about this plan over the last three years seriously. Staff's presentation doesn't offer any new material. It is simply a repeat of the same old arguments we've been hearing for the last three years."

After hearing from Willis, Commissioner Mike Hart said, "This presentation was spot on." He said he wished more people could hear it. He said they would conclude, "The sky isn't falling."

Commissioner Vice President Kelly McConkey said four years from now he will ask the critics, "Tell me what was built?"

Commissioner Hance said, "We are going to make a decision pretty soon and we are going to move on."

Regarding the overflow crowd at the Calvert Pines Senior Center for the public hearing, Hutchins vowed not to use that facility again for hearings. He said they would find some other place, hopefully the College of Southern Maryland.

New License Granted for Former Calvert Taphouse Had Originally Been the Greene Turtle

By Dick Myers
Editor

In an unusual chain of circumstances, a proposed new restaurant in Prince Frederick appeared two months ago before the Calvert County Board of License Commissioners (liquor board) requesting a transfer of an existing license to them so they could operate the new establishment. The request was granted contingent on the contract going through between them and the existing license holder.

Lawrence Van Tassel, Jr., 31, a Calvert native and Calvert High School graduate, was proposing to take over the Calvert Taphouse in the Prince Frederick Shopping Center. That bar and restaurant, owned by Steve Cooper, had only been operating for several months, having been converted from a Greene Turtle franchise that had been in business since 2006.

At the July 25 liquor board meeting, Van Tassel's attorney, Laurence Cumberland of the Prince Frederick law firm of Cumberland and Erly, said they learned at the May meeting that Calvert Taphouse had a pending violation for selling to underage persons.

The violation was due to be heard at the June board meeting, but Cooper reportedly turned in his license at that meeting, saying he was out of business.

Cumberland told the board that his client's pending contract with Cooper to purchase the restaurant's equipment was void because representations had not proven to be true. Cumberland said that Cooper was in the process of being evicted by his landlord and the equipment was due to be put out on the street.

"They are starting afresh," Cumberland said of his client. He said they were buying their own equipment and had entered into an agreement with the landlord to operate the facility.

Van Tassel has no restaurant experience and is depending on an experienced manager formerly with Ruby Tuesday's. The board was told that the new establishment, to be called O'Gannigan's, would be more of a sit-down restaurant than the previous establishment, that was more of a bar featuring craft brews.

The board unanimously approved the new on-sale beer, wine and liquor license for the business.

Also, at the meeting, the board heard violations for 15 establishments for failing to pick up and display their renewed license by the July 1 deadline. Some of the violations were absolved because it turned out they had not opened prior to picking up the license, albeit late, or had not served alcohol after the July 1 deadline but before picking up the renewal. Others were fined $100 for each day they operated without a license.

Also at the meeting, the board was informed that the following establishments had been visited by their inspector in the previous month and passed without any violation: Wine and Design, 2 & 4 Liquors, ABD Liquors, Bridge Drive Inn, Buehler's Package Goods,

Country Wine, R & J Liquors, Apple Greene Wine & Spirits, Lusby Liquors, North Beach Fastop, Southern Liquors, Spirits of Calvert and Stoney's Seafood House – Prince Frederick.

Grants Approved for Two New Fire Trucks

Apparatus Go to St. Leonard, North Beach

By Dick Myers
Editor

The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) has approved two grants for new apparatus for two of the county's volunteer emergency services companies. The grants were for St. Leonard Volunteer Fire and Rescue Company for $678,000 for an engine and the North Beach Volunteer Fire Department for $124,000 for a brush truck.

St. Leonard Chief Ricky Weems and North Beach Chief Chris Mills appeared before the commissioners along with James W. Richardson, division chief, Fire-Rescue-EMS to make the presentation. The grants were unanimously approved. They were both in the Fiscal Year 2020 Capital Improvement Plan.

Richardson said the St. Leonard grant would be "a promissory note through which the grant funding would be repaid through service over 20 years. The county will receive a Security Deed of Trust that will complement the promissory note." The North Beach loan would be repaid in 12 years.

According to a memo from Richardson to the BOCC: "In order to apply for this grant, St. Leonard Volunteer Fire and Rescue Company 7, Inc. had to meet several requirements. The company adopted by resolution formal procurement procedures, procurement committee standards, and contract administration policies. The apparatus specifications received the approval of the Chief's Council, the Fire-Rescue-EMS Association, and the Calvert County Fire & Rescue Commission. Finally, the St. Leonard Volunteer Fire and Rescue Company

7, Inc. has agreed to a promissory note through which the grant funding would be repaid through service over twenty years. The County will receive a Security Deed of Trust that will complement the promissory note.

"This unit will replace a 1999 Pierce Saber Engine with 62,867 miles. This current apparatus has a service agreement in effect through July 1, 2024, with a balance due of $47,854.20. In order to proceed with their procurement, the department requests that the BOCC forgive the $47,854.20 balance on this current agreement and release the security interest. Proceeds from the sale of the current apparatus are required to be applied to the purchase of the replacement apparatus and/or equipment."

The separate memo on North Beach said the same procedure was followed. It further states: "This unit will replace a 2002 GMC Truck with 20,672 miles. The Calvert County Fire and Rescue Commission has approved this request."

Mills said North Beach is kicking in additional funding so a more fire appropriate unit can be purchased.

Hogan Fires Back At Trump Over Baltimore Tweets

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Gov. Larry Hogan retaliated against recent statements made by President Donald Trump that Baltimore is "rat and rodent infested" on WBAL News Radio Monday evening, slamming both Trump's comments and federal inaction and divisive politics in helping stressed cities.

"The comments are just outrageous and inappropriate," Hogan said in a telephone call-in interview with host Clarence M. Mitchell IV.

Trump, in making his comments, which were directed at Maryland Dist. 7 Rep. Elijah Cummings, has been accused of racism towards the long-time congressman, but Hogan said the Twitter wars were indicative of the "angry and divisive politics that are tearing American apart."

Hogan said Trump's comments came less than a day after he addressed the National Governor's Association as its new president about how states can find solutions to critical problems while Washington, D.C. is still divided.

"Washington is completely consumed with angry and divisive politics," Hogan said. "Enough is enough; people are completely fed up with this kind of non-sense."

While Trump has been criticized for the manner in which he delivered his comments on Baltimore, the city remains a haven for rats and rodents.

Animal Planet has named Baltimore one of the 10 worst cities in the world for its rat population, while PBS aired a documentary last year on the depth of the rat infestation there.

Even former Baltimore Mayor Catherine Pugh, while touring an East Baltimore neighborhood last year was caught on microphone saying she could smell the rats and dead animals as she passed through.

Hogan said the state has recently invested $5 billion in restoring Baltimore as well as removing many blighted properties and introducing more law enforcement to stop street violence; he criticized federal officials for bickering instead of solving problems.

"Why are we not focused on solving the problems and getting to work instead of 'who's tweeting about what'..." Hogan said. "It's just absurd.

"What is the President doing? What is the Congress doing?"

Hogan Assumes Leadership of Governors Association National Infrastructure Initiative to be Launched

Governor Larry Hogan on July 26 was officially elected chairman of the National Governors Association (NGA) at the nonpartisan organization's 2019 summer meeting in Salt Lake City, UT. In his first address as NGA chairman, Governor Hogan announced his yearlong initiative to push for the repair, enhancement, and modernization of the nation's aging infrastructure.

"I want to sincerely thank all of my fellow governors for electing me as chairman of the NGA," said Governor Hogan. "I am so honored to have the opportunity to lead the nation's governors over the next year. In states across the country, governors are working together in a bipartisan way, showing real leadership, making real progress, and finding real solutions to the serious problems facing us."

The governor's national infrastructure initiative, Foundation for Success, will encourage state-led projects to meet the needs of the 21st century, a task made more urgent by the lack of federal action.

Governor Hogan has made historic investments in roads, bridges, and transit in Maryland. His administration has repaved more than half of the state's highway system, and has invested a record $14 billion in transit. In 2017, he broke ground on the Purple Line light rail project in Montgomery and Prince George's Counties, which represents the largest Public-Private Partnership (P3) project in America. He is also advancing a transformative Traffic Relief Plan for the Capital Beltway and I-270—the largest highway P3 project in the world.

Governor Larry Hogan

"In states throughout the nation, governors are upgrading roads, bridges, trains, and mass transit, improving airports and ports, fixing aging water systems, and providing high-speed internet access," said Governor

Hogan. "As NGA chairman, I intend to highlight the work of our governors and drive action from our leaders in Washington on an issue that is so fundamental to our economy and our quality of life."

This national infrastructure initiative is based on four pillars:

1. Getting To Work: Relieving Congestion to Boost Economic Competitiveness
2. Enhancing Efficiency: Eliminating Red Tape and Integrating Smart Technology
3. Strengthening Security and Resiliency: Protecting America's Critical Infrastructure
4. Financing for the Future: Leveraging Private Sector Investments

Governor Hogan will convene regional summits focused on each pillar of the initiative, in addition to leading delegations to Australia, Canada, and Japan. He is the first governor of Maryland to serve as NGA chair since Parris Glendening in 2000.

Since 2017, Governor Hogan has served on the NGA Executive Committee. In addition, he previously led the Finance Committee, NGA Best Practices Board, the Water Policy Learning Network, and the Economic Development & Commerce Committee. He was elected the organization's vice chair in 2018 alongside Chairman Steve Bullock, governor of Montana.

Port Republic Man Seriously Injured in ATV Accident

Driver Charged with Driving Under Influence

Members of the Calvert County Sheriff's Office Patrol Bureau and Crash Reconstruction Team responded on Saturday, July 27 at approximately 5:34 p.m., to Ben Creek Road in the area of Williams Wharf Road in St. Leonard for a report of a motor vehicle collision involving an all-terrain vehicle (ATV/ four-wheeler).

Preliminary investigation revealed that three males were riding on a Yamaha Bruin 350 four-wheeler traveling on Ben Creek Road when the operator Thomas Edward Bahneman, 24 of Upper Marlboro failed to negotiate a left hand curve in the roadway and the vehicle left the roadway and struck an embankment. James Scott Mathesius, 22 of Prince Frederick was riding on the rear cargo area of the ATV and was ejected as a result of vehicle leaving the roadway. Mathesius sustained minor injuries and refused medical treatment on the scene. Bryan James Holland, 20 of Port Republic was riding on the front cargo area (in front of the handlebars) of the ATV and was ejected when the vehicle struck the embankment. Holland sustained serious injuries, including head trauma and was unconscious. Maryland State Police Trooper 7 transported Holland to Baltimore Shock Trauma where he is listed in critical condition.

Additionally, it was determined that Bahneman was under the influence of alcohol at the time he was operating the ATV. Bahneman was placed under arrest and charged with Driving Under the Influence and other drunk driving related offenses.

At this time alcohol, speed and improper use of the ATV appear to be major factors that contributed to this collision.

The collision is under investigation by Cpl. V. Bortchevsky, of Crash Reconstruction Team. Anyone with additional information is asked to contact Cpl. V. Bortchevsky, via e-mail vlad.bortchevsky@calvertcountymd.gov or by calling the Calvert County Sheriff's Office at (410) 535-2800.

Injured Firefighter Returns Home

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

According to on-line posts from the Dunkirk Volunteer Fire Department, a firefighter who was injured and subsequently hospitalized after fighting a major blaze in Lothian in Anne Arundel County has been released from the hospital.

Nathan Taylor, the officer in charge of Squad 5 of the volunteer company was released from the Anne Arundel County Medical Center July 27; he was taken back to Calvert County in a Dunkirk volunteer fire apparatus.

Two other firefighters were injured while fighting the fire that occurred the night of July 26 but they were treated and released the same night, according to information from the Dunkirk fire house.

The Lothian fire, which took place in the 5500 block of Greenock Road brought firefighters from Anne Arundel, Prince George's and Calvert counties to fight the blaze.

The fire, which had progressed through a renovated two-story farmhouse, was so advanced that a second alarm brought the Dunkirk volunteer ambulance to assist, firehouse reports stated.

Two Anne Arundel County firefighters were also hurt trying to knock down

Non-Profit Educates Parents, Empowers Youth

A local 501c3 non-profit organization known as "POSITIVEVIBES" was established in June 2018 by Sandy Mattingly of Chesapeake Beach in honor and memory of her son Chase. At only 21 years old, Chase died from an unintentional drug overdose. The culprit, Fentanyl! Found in his toxicology was Fentanyl and Xanax. Chase was not on any prescription medication. His cause of death -- Fentanyl Intoxication.

Since the loss of her son, Sandy is dedicated to raise awareness of substance abuse and prevention in order to turn this tragedy into something more positive in his honor. Chase made a horrible mistake, ultimately the wrong choice.

The organization, Chase B. Mattingly for the FIGHT, Inc., POSITIVEVIBES has one goal...to promote positive thinking in order to make better choices. Our mission is to educate our parents and empower our youth in a positive manner. We need to reduce the stigma and denial. We need to talk!

POSITIVEVIBES is presenting its first Family-friendly Fundraiser, a Color Run/Walk (5K and More) Celebrating our Youth. The theme of this event is "THIS IS ME" Happy. Healthy. Substance Free! The event is scheduled to take place in September at Hallowing Point Park and POSITIVEVIBES is seeking Calvert County Youth Organizations that may be interested in a donation from the proceeds of this event. For every ticket purchased that indicates your club/organization as a donation recipient you will receive 50 percent of that ticket sale. POSITIVE-

VIBES will provide on-line promotional material, printed flyers and the URL link once the ticket platform goes live (projected launch date is August 1st). We are also continuing to welcome event sponsors to help offset our expenses and support a great cause.

Look Out for Southern Maryland Meats New Signs, Labels Spotlight Member Farms

You might notice something new on your drive through Southern Maryland in the next few weeks – Southern Maryland Meats farm signs have arrived!

The Southern Maryland Meats (SMM), a marketing program of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Development Commission, is ramping up promotional efforts to increase consumer recognition for the marketing program's branding logo and shining the spotlight on the individual farm producers that participate in the SMM program.

Starting July 1, 2019, all 51 Southern Maryland Meats producers around the region, will receive a specially designed farm sign and adhesive labels for their meat products, all displaying the SMM logo and legend – "Southern Maryland Meats Proudly Produced Here."

A first for the SMM program, the promotional sign was developed for high visibility in-ground use at the entrance to farm driveways, and at farm stores/stands, vendor booths at farmers' markets and other sales venues. The sturdy double-sided metal signs with their bright yellow and red color scheme are bound to attract attention as they adorn the roadside of participating farms. Similarly, the corresponding Southern Maryland Meats label reinforces the branding identity on meat packages at point of sale with "Proud Producer & Member".

"When you see the sign, you'll know that the featured farm is selling local, humanely raised, quality meat, and is a certified member of the Southern Maryland Meats program," said Craig Sewell, SMM Marketing and Livestock Manager. "We are intent on building a brand that identifies with the area's rich farming legacy and with the producers who are bringing top-quality regional meats to your table."

To coincide with the sign/label campaign SMM launched a new consumer resource, the Southern Maryland Meat and Seafood Guide that promotes the region's meat and seafood producers. To emphasize brand recognition in the marketplace, both the in-print and the online digital versions identify SMM farm listings with the SMM logo.

To find a Southern Maryland Meats farmer, farm, farm stand or farmers market, and other meat producer farms in the five county area, or to view the Southern Maryland Meat and Seafood Guide – visit www.Southernmaryland-Meats.com.

SMM signs, labels and the Southern Maryland Meat and Seafood guide are made possible in part by a Rural Maryland Prosperity Investment Fund Grant (RMPIF) awarded to SMADC, a division of the Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland.

Fossilized Gar Subject of Unique Discovery

Coprolites are fossilized feces. Two coprolite-enthusiasts - George Frandsen from Jacksonville, Florida working in collaboration with Calvert Marine Museum (CMM) Curator of Paleontology, Dr. Stephen J. Godfrey - have just published a new coprolite first. The description of a 52-million-year-old fossil garfish from the famous Green River Formation near Kemmerer, Wyoming was found with fossilized feces in its mouth (Figures 1-3). This is the first fossil ever found in which feces is preserved in the mouth of an animal. The fossil record is an endless source of fascination.

Dean Sherman discovered the fossil gar in 2017 in his private fossil quarry near Kemmerer. Sherman recovered the 36 inch-long specimen in several pieces, which he reassembled and removed the thin veneer of rock covering the fish. While preparing the head, he noticed the two coprolites between its jaws (Figs. 2-3). Senior author George Frandsen subsequently purchased the fossil for his growing collection of coprolites.

We do not know if the three-foot-long gar was deliberately trying to eat the feces at the time it died. Maybe that's why it died! It is possible that the gar was biting the feces to assess their palatability and then died. Another possibility is that the feces entered the gar's mouth serendipitously at or near the time of its death. Although much less likely because the coprolites are so well formed, it is also possible that what we are referring to as fossilized feces is actually fossilized vomit (i.e., regurgitalites) that made its way into the fish's mouth just before, during the throws of death, or immediately after it died. At last, there is a fossil that gives meaning to the phrase "Eat --- and die."

Chesapeake Windsail Cruises: Bringing Sailing and Tourists to Chesapeake Beach

By Dick Myers
Editor

When Nate Pope was on the Calvert County Economic Development Board, including a stint as chairman, there was a lot of talk about Calvert becoming a tourist destination. “We’d all walk through and talk through the times when people would come to Chesapeake Beach,” he said.

With the new parking garage near completion and a major expansion beginning at Chesapeake Beach Resort and Spa, Pope’s new business venture is sitting right in the middle of what could be a catalyst for that to happen.

“Now you’ve got a destination for people to stay more than a day. Let’s offer them some more things to do. So, based on that, I kind of knew that I wanted to be here in this particular place,” he said. He added, “if you’re a seaport town with the water, the first thing you think about is going sailing.”

Pope last year launched Chesapeake Windsail Cruises, based out of the resort’s Rod ‘N Reel docks. “Our model is based on doing these particular cruises associated with upscale hotels.” He’s eyeing expansion to other locations near other such hotels in Hampton Va., National Harbor and Annapolis.

But we are getting ahead of ourselves. First, Pope, a retired Washington, DC advertising agency executive, had to come up with the idea. It began at a family gathering. Pope grew up in Alabama and lived in Prince George’s County, before moving to Calvert in 1993. They first looked at North Beach but found the homes on the water too expensive, so they figured they would find a bargain farther inland and settled in Owings.

His wife’s best friend, a doctor, passed away. “We had visitors. The doctor’s friends were in town and stayed in the house with us. So, I have a period of time after three or four or five days and you know, you forget that you’re waiting for a funeral to happen because I think it was almost 13 days out before the funeral occurred. So, it felt more like we have a vacation company situation. “So, at that point you kind of realize you need to start entertaining people.”

Chesapeake Windsail Cruises owner Nate Pope.

Captain Bob Morrow at the helm.

His sister asked if he had a sailboat. “So that thought kind of triggered it,” he said. Chesapeake Beach had all kinds of fishing boats and not one sailboat.

“I can get me a boat. I get my wife to buy into an idea, I can start a business and get a boat.” It was the ah ha moment.

“In 2015 we got our federal ID number, in December and then four months later we got incorporated. Then we got a website up to test the market to see if we’ll get a lot of people interested in it.” And he did.

Now in their second year they have four captains and about five or six first mates. Last year they had 10 staff off and on. They rotate staff, depending on their schedules. But there is still, as of now, only one boat. To get there he did a lot of research.

He had to find something that fit in Chesapeake Beach and fit the needs of his customers. “The boat we originally looked at was not made in America. So, we had to scrap it. The Beneteau is a French boat but it’s made in South Carolina. The majority of the ones that are sold in United States are made in Marion, South Carolina. We needed a boat that could draw under five feet, 13 inches but still look nice, like a very nice, rich woman.”

He added, “We wanted people to know that it was a bit different.” He said people, when they thought of sailboats thought of sailing classes and hard work. This would be one on which they didn’t have to do any work. They could relax and enjoy the Chesapeake Bay.

“In our case, in our boat, it’s a luxury boat. The boat has a full kitchen or galley, two bathrooms or heads and it sleeps seven people.”

He found the boat that met his requirements in Oriental, North Carolina. It had been used to sail the ocean. She is named Eternal Hope after his wife. She is 42 feet long, 13 feet wide and weighs 17,950 pounds.

Pope’s goal of enhancing tourism in Calvert County and specifically in Chesapeake Beach has been slowed somewhat by the ever-present need for the dredging of the Fishing Creek channel where he and the town’s large charter boat fleet are located. The town has received emergency funding from the state to start dredging while awaiting the Army Corp of Engineers next full dredge project. But those monies won’t be released until August 15 and dredging isn’t expected to begin until mid-September, after Pope’s potentially busiest times.

Because of the silting in of the channel, Pope told the Chesapeake Beach Town Council that his boat has hit bottom four times this summer, forcing one potentially dangerous emergency evacuation of the boat. Because of the problems he has cut from four charters a day to two, to coincide with high tides. Each charter is two and a half hours.

Pope was told by Mayor Pat Mahoney that there was nothing the town could do about the timing of the work and perhaps he and the charter boat captains could urge resort owner Gerald Donovan to complain to the state. Mahoney said it was a federal and state decision.

Pope was disappointed by the response. He felt that at the very least the town could have picked up the phone and asked for the process to be expedited. “You would think that the city would really push to support all the boat people here,” he said.

But the problem is only a temporary roadblock as Pope prepares to roll out his venture to other locations. And his original idea of providing something else to help Chesapeake Beach become a tourist destination appears to be panning out.

On the day of The County Times interview with Pope, Friday, July 26, the 3 p.m. cruise had five passengers, two families from Montgomery County, one from Rockville and the other from Silver Spring. One had heard about the cruises on Trip Adviser and the other from the company’s website. Neither had ever been to Chesapeake Beach.

Captain for the day was Bob Morrow and first mate was Carolyn Wilson, who just graduated from Patuxent High School and is preparing to attend St. Mary’s College of Maryland.

Judging from the reaction on Trip Adviser, there have been many happy customers. One said: “We had a great time on the 3 p.m. cruise with Nate and Captain Dave. They were very informative and lots of fun. You can bring your own food and drinks. We can’t wait to do it again.”

Another said, “This was a wonderful addition to our relaxing last-minute get away. We were kid-free, the weather was gorgeous, and the charter ended up being a private sunset cruise. All of that helped, but the staff and owner were very pleasant, and the boat was in great condition!! Highly recommend!”

The cruise starts off with a presentation by the captain and crew about the history and natural features. “We talk about the water and we talk about the length of the water. We talk about the fish. We talk about the Osprey. We talk about the dolphins. We talk about Tom Clancy’s place down the water a little bit. Then we get people to enter into the conversation.

“The whole presentation is about 20 minutes. By the time they get on the boat and start motoring out, the first mate would have told most of the story when they get to number one marker. Then they put up the flag, put up the sails and they have their sail.

Emory Ends Potomac Win Drought Hollidge Sails to RUSH Checkers

Defending track champion Tyler Emory roared to his first win of the season in last Friday night's 25-lap Limited Late Model headliner at Potomac Speedway. The win for Emory, steering his Adams/Quade owned Rocket no.23, would be the 9th of his career and his first Potomac score since August of last season.

Emory drew the pole for the feature and pounced on his opportunity as he would pace all 25-circuits in convincing fashion. "This year has been a struggle and to finally get everyone on this team a win here tonight is pretty cool." Emory stated in victory lane. "I'd like to dedicate this win to my mother, she's battling some health issues and I'm really happy to get a win with her here tonight." Current point leader Derick Quade rallied from the rear of the field to finish second with Jonny Oliver, Brandon Long and Billy Tucker completing the top-five.

Dale Hollidge scored a flag to flag win in the companion 25-lap RUSH Crate Late Model main. Hollidge blasted from the pole to lead the distance for his 3rd win of the season aboard his Rocket no.0. "This is such a tough class and wins are hard to come by." Said Hollidge in his victory lane interview. "We've been testing some stuff with this car and it ran pretty good tonight." Standings leader Darren Alvey took second with Ben Bowie, Jeremy Pilkerton and Megan Mann trailing at the finish. A scary moment took place on the 3rd lap of the event as Austin Bussler made contact with another car on the front stretch sending his Swartz no.2 into a series of violent flips before coming to rest in turn one. The car was destroyed, but fortunately Bussler emerged from the carnage unhurt.

In support class action, Ed Pope Jr. tallied his season 4th and career 18th in the 16-lap Street Stock feature, Greg Morgan scored his 3rd of the season and career 9th in the 15-lap Hobby Stock event, Greg Mattingly took 2nd in a row and 3rd of the season in the 15-lap Strictly Stock feature with Allen Griffith Jr. scoring his 3rd U-Car win after apparent winner Cody Stamp failed a post race inspection.

The Tackle Box Fishing Report

Johnny Caldwell caught rockfish in the mouth of the Patuxent casting lures from a kayak.

Thomas Huthins with perch from Patuxent.

By Ken and Linda Lamb
Contributing Writers

We've got it all!

Rockfish for lure casters; spanish mackerel and bluefish for trollers using planers and spoons; Cobia and channel bass for trollers, chummers, and sight casters; spot and perch for bottom fishermen; catfish most everywhere; snakeheads taking lures and bait; crabs galore; and bass, bluegill, crappie and pickeral in the fresh water.

If I left anything out, we've probably got that too.

The rockfish are remarkable in the mornings and mid-day on high tides in the Patuxent on all structure, under piers and on the rocks. Bomber Wind Cheaters in the blue silver and Hard Head Custom Baits popping rigs are what the rockfish are eating.

Up the Patuxent on all points and drop offs the rockfish are consistent for trollers. The lure of choice is a white bucktail with a black head, known to old timers as an "eight ball".

Spot are everywhere in the Patuxent and Potomac. The Potomac at Ragged Point is special; Sandy Point is the Patuxent hot spot.

Perch in the creeks will not bite on low tides. Incoming on a half tide to flood is excellent. Bett's Spin Root Beer and Beetle Spin white are what works for me.
